Git & Github

1. You should have different branches and commits on your github.
2. You should maintain a number of reasonable commits and branches, understand their purpose, and have a valid reason for each of them.
3. When working in a team, both team members should have a sufficient number of commits.
4. Utilizing git as a useful tool for project control is a requirement in this project.

Documentation

1. Your project must have documentation.
2. In the document explain your code and list utilities used in your document (search some good project documentation to see what you must do).

Scores

1. 200 points for HTML/CSS code and the final webpage design.
2. 100 points for Git and the way you use it.
3. 100 points for your documentation.

Bonus points may be earned for noteworthy improvements that leave a positive impression.

Pay attention to details! when the color changes when you hover, or the cursor shape changes, box shadow, border radius and etc.

Good Luck 😊
